The boundary of a unit is defined between the inner and outer boundaries of the walls of the said unit.
The boundary of a unit is arbitrary where it falls & unit is a portion of the wall of the unit.
The upper boundary of a unit, subsidiary along its front, side, back, corner, or rear, is a line 0.15 m above the wall boundary or a vertically-adjusted line 0.15 metres higher than the existing levels of the unit.
The lower boundary of a unit is a line 0.15 m below the inner and lower surfaces of the ceiling of the unit.
